

Announcing Conference Opening Keynote Speaker, Julie Lindsay

Fresh from ISTE2016 where she launched her latest book, The Global Educator, Julie Lindsay will deliver the ACCE2016 opening keynote then collaborate with conference delegates in a series of practical workshops designed to inspire and support your journey into connected, global learning environments.

ACCE2016 Opening Keynote: What if we collaborated?

With a focus on connected and collaborative approaches as a curriculum imperative Julie will share inspiring ideas and practices to do with online local to global learning.

ACCE2016 Workshop with Julie Lindsay 1: Making collaboration happen

What does it take to design a global education program that meets the needs of all stakeholders? What are the essential strategies and preparations to ensure that learning can become collaborative and global? What leadership skills, attitudes and habits can astute educators adopt to make this happen?

Join Julie as she shares how to prepare for collaboration and global online learning. Participants will explore multi-modal learning while digital, online and global from a leadership perspective. They will develop an understanding of how to lead a global education program with a focus on collaboration that is both local and global in concept and practice.

Be a global leader - this workshop will show you how!

ACCE2016 Workshop with Julie Lindsay 2: Collaboration in the learning environment

Have you ever asked, 'How do I get started with global collaboration?' Do you want to take your learning global - as an educator? For your students? What does 'global collaboration' mean and what are the real opportunities out there to make this happen?

Join Julie as she shares essential concepts and practices for embedding online global collaborative learning into the curriculum. This session is aimed at those who want to get started, and also those who have already embraced global learning in some way. Participants will explore global citizenship, collaborative learning modes, the taxonomy of global collaboration and more! They will develop an understanding of online global collaboration in practice and leave with ideas and strategies to make this happen.

We have the tools, we have the pedagogy, and it's time to connect the world!

Julie Lindsay is a global collaboration consultant, innovator, teacherpreneur and author. She has a 30+ years career in K-12 schools and worked in international schools for fifteen years across Asia, Africa and the Middle East as an educational technology leader. Her passion is for online global collaboration and as Founder and CEO of Flat Connections she designs and manages award winning online projects for all K-12 levels and customizes learning experiences for educators including virtual courses and live events.

More recently has become employed in higher education and at Charles Sturt University she is an Adjunct Lecturer in the School of Information Studies and in 2016 she was appointed as the Quality Online Learning and Teaching Leader in the Faculty of Arts and Education. She is currently completing an EdD at the University of Southern Queensland. Her research focus is online global educators and pedagogical change.

Julie is the author of two books 'Flattening Classrooms, Engaging Minds: Move to Global Collaboration One Step and a Time', (Pearson 2012) is a definitive text on how to embed global connections and collaborations for meaningful learning, and (her new book), 'The Global Educator: Leveraging Technology for Collaborative Learning and Teaching' (ISTE, 2016) shares approaches, updated practices and case studies on how to learn online both locally and globally. Julie is also an Apple Distinguished Educator (ADE, 2010), Google Certified Innovator (2014), Recipient of ISTE 'Making IT Happen' Award (2013), Winner of ISTE Online Learning Award (2007).